

FATHER OF EIGHT SECOND VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH

Death claimed a second victim in the auto accident a mile west of Cashtown Saturday night when Charles William Forsythe, 48, Orrtanna R. 1, expired at the Warner hospital Monday evening at 11:45 o'clock.

Forsythe received a fracture of the left side of the pelvis, fractures to five ribs on both sides, lacerations of the chin, burns of the left leg, dislocation of the left hip and contusions of the right leg.

Dr. C. G. Crist, county coroner, said death was due to shock, the fractured ribs, contusion of the chest and internal injuries.

Donald Wincer, 28, Huntingdon, died Sunday evening at the hospital from severe burns received in the crash.

Helped Build New Road

Forsythe and Wincer were passengers in a car operated by Paul W. Peterson, 41, Orrtanna R. 1, which swung wide on a curve on the old Lincoln highway a mile west of Cashtown and crashed almost head-on into a car driven west by Ray E. Davis, 43, Orrtanna R. D. The Peterson auto burst into flames after the crash.

Forsythe was riding in the front seat with Peterson while Wincer occupied a rear seat.

Mr. Forsythe was a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Forsythe, Orrtanna. He was employed by the Langenfeiter construction company and worked on the construction of the new Lincoln highway west of here. He was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Has Eight Children

In addition to his parents he is survived by his widow, the former Carrie Heintzelman; eight children, Mrs. Robert Keller, Gettysburg R. 4; William, Gettysburg; Mrs. Francis Sanders, Lincolnway east; Miss Fay Forsythe, Gettysburg; Rosemary, Donald, Joyce and Dorothy, all at home.

Also surviving are these brothers and sisters, Charles W., Gettysburg R. D.; Mrs. Clarence Arnold, Gettysburg R. 2; Mrs. Paul Miller, Gettysburg R. 5; Bernard, Orrtanna R. 1; Mrs. Allen Sharrar, Orrtanna R. 2; Mrs. Wilbert Brown, York, and Mrs. Ira Myers, East Berlin.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Funeral services for Wincer will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Brown Funeral home, Huntingdon, with interment in Huntingdon.

In the living room are a maple table and chairs, a maple desk and chair. An electric sewing machine, more living room furniture, bookcases, laundry equipment, draperies and decorative articles may be purchased in the future.

Plan Complete Home

Maurice Bower, principal of the North Adams jointure, said the desired goal is to set up a complete home, even to the "lived-in" look, so that the students can become good housekeepers by keeping their own house at the school.

Seventy-seven of the 89 girls in the high school are taking the home economics courses, Bower said.

Ralph Golden, York Springs, formerly first vice president, was elected.

Civic Nursing Association To Increase Service; Chest Helps

The oldest civic organization in the Community Chest will receive $1,000 this year from the 1949 campaign, an increase of $100 over the $900 it requested a year ago.

The increase will permit the organization, the Gettysburg Civic Nursing association, to extend its services to the entire area covered by regulations of the association to activities within the borough limits.

Organized in 1912, the Civic Nursing association has carried on throughout the years. It employs a nurse who is available to anyone who may need her services at the home at any time of the day or night.

Most of these who call upon the nurse pay a nominal fee for her services and as a result the annual request for funds is kept at a minimum.

Qualified Nurse

The nurse, Mrs. Joseph P. Bushey, is fully qualified in her work. The rules of the association, set up in 1912, state, "The work of the nurse is to administer to the sick in their homes and to instruct their families how to take proper care of them, how to prepare food and to observe proper sanitation."

During the past year the nurse made about 500 home calls. With the extension of the service to the suburban area around Gettysburg—area covered by the Community Chest, the work of the nurse is expected to be increased. Because of (Please Turn to Page 2)

DIRECTORS TO RIDE BUSES IN ROUTE SURVEY

School directors of the Gettysburg joint school system are going to join the youngsters in riding the buses to and from school during the next month or two.

While the directors will get a taste of what it is like to be a bus passenger for possibly an hour or more in the morning, the purpose behind their trip will be to determine just what changes can be made in the bus routes to cut down the length of time a youngster will have to ride in the future, starting next fall, and to determine whether the routes could be changed to give more efficient service to all youngsters.

The decision to make the school bus survey was reached Monday night at the regular meeting of the executive committee of the joint board held in the office of the superintendent of schools, Dr. Lloyd C. Keefeauver, at the high school here.

Plan Route Revision

Doctor Keefeauver was instructed to prepare a list of questions and checking points for the directors to carry as they make the trips on the buses. Every time the bus stops, the directors will make proper notations. As the bus travels over its route, the directors will mark off the types of roads, the backtracking necessary and other details concerning the trips.

When the survey is completed the directors will bring their findings for a joint study to work out details of future operations of the buses. One thing definitely will be changed next year, the executive committee decided, and that will be the long haul in Straban township. This year, the students traveling the longest by bus are on the vehicles for one (Please Turn to Page 7)

SCHOOL BOARDS PLAN STUDY OF BUILDING NEEDS

The school boards making up the Gettysburg joint school system will begin this month a study which ultimately will result in a building program designed to meet the needs of the entire system.

Members of the executive committee meeting Monday at the high school agreed to urge their boards in Gettysburg and Cumberland, Freedom, Highland and Straban townships to begin at once consideration of future building plans.

At the December meeting all boards will name a member as representative on a joint planning board to decide the possible location of elementary centers and details of a junior high school building.

The planning committee will probably engage an architect and then the joint district can proceed from there to any building it may plan.

Organize December 12

The December 12 meeting of the joint boards will start at 8 o'clock. All boards will hold separate meetings at the high school here at 7 o'clock. At those sessions the boards will swear in new members, elect officers and appoint representatives to the executive committee and the joint planning board. At 8 o'clock the joint board, made up of all members of the five school boards, will reorganize for the coming year, according to the program outlined Monday night.

After a rather lengthy deliberation, the joint committee voted to erect a wire fence, six feet high, around the playground at Meade school. While pointing out that the expense will be considerable, members said "it will be cheaper to put up the fence than to have some child killed." The bid for the fence was given to the Cyclone Fence company, of Harrisburg, at a cost of $1,289 installed. The fence, which will be of two-inch mesh, will have single gates near the school and a double gate facing Buford avenue. The children will use the gates near the school. The double gate will be used by coal trucks.

To Buy 30 Chairs

The committee plans to purchase approximately 30 chairs for the home economics room at the high school. (Please Turn to Page 8)

A. H. WELLER, 34, FORMER TOWN RESIDENT, DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Addison H. Weller, 34, of 67 North George street, Hanover, son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Weller, Chabersburg street, was fatally injured and three other passengers of a car were injured in an auto accident this morning at 12:48 o'clock in Center square, Hanover.

Weller was one of the occupants of an automobile driven by John Young, Stock street, Hanover, which crashed into a concrete traffic pillar in the Hanover square.

Car Demolished

Young was driving north on Baltimore street when the accident occurred at the intersection of the square. The car was demolished and the pillar was moved 18 feet, nine inches, according to Hanover police. Auto skid marks showed for over 80 feet, according to the police.

WILL DISPLAY DUTCH STYLE CRAFTS HERE

The International Wives club of Gettysburg will sponsor and arrange an exhibit and demonstration of Tolaware and furniture decoration done in Pennsylvania Dutch style, and the skills and crafts of foreign-born residents of Adams county, as part of the "Pennsylvania Week" displays to be shown in the Hotel Gettysburg annex Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 20, 21 and 22.

The "Pennsylvania Week" exhibits in the annex will be open to the public from 6 to 10 p. m. Thursday and Friday nights, and from 4 p. m. to 10 p. m. Saturday. At 9:30 o'clock each evening a movie on Pennsylvania will be shown.

Tolaware, to be shown in connection with the International Wives club displays, were tin-plated sheets of iron, thinly covered with varnish, and were probably imitations of Chinese lacquer work. They were sometimes called Japanned ware.

Decorating Pieces

There were many decorative devices used on Tolaware, and on furniture, quilts, pottery, birth certificates, rugs and other articles found in Pennsylvania Dutch homes. A piece here and there brightened the otherwise somewhat dull and oftentimes meager furnishings of the homes of the frugal, hard-working Pennsylvania Dutch.

John Byers, Littlestown, will show how the decorating was done and (Please Turn to Page 4)

SAYS GERMANY NOT YET READY FOR DEMOCRACY

Germans are not yet ready for democracy, Dr. William K. Sundermeyer, member of the Gettysburg college faculty, told members of the Gettysburg Lions club at their weekly dinner meeting Monday evening at the Shetter House.

Reporting on observations he made during a trip to Germany last summer, the speaker said: "The Germans are certainly not Communists but they are not democrats either. They refuse to assume individual responsibility or initiative. Their indifference to religion is terrific. They are indifferent to their own situation and to political affairs. They seem to be waiting for someone to come along to tell them what to do."

Urges Student Exchange
Doctor Sundermeyer urged a greater exchange of students between Germany and America as a means of showing young Germans how democracy works here.

Ninety-six Lions and guests heard the address. President Donald M. Swope presided at the meeting and announced a meeting of the cleanup project committee, which is headed by Vice President Radford H. Lippy. The committee includes members of the community betterment and health and welfare groups. A meeting of the finance committee also followed the general club session.

Ross Koons of the York Springs Lions club attended the meeting to ask local Lions to provide judges for the Halloween parade at York Springs October 29.

AUTO DRIVERS' COURSE AT B.H.S. IS COMPULSORY

All students at the Biglerville high school are required to take the auto drivers' course being conducted at the school, Donald Ernst, instructor in the classes, told the local Rotary club at its meeting Monday evening at the YWCA.

Last year the course was elective, but the board decided to make the safe driving course compulsory because, while everyone does not become a driver, everyone is a pedestrian, Ernst said. Statistics, he added, have shown that most of the pedestrians killed by autos are persons who do not drive and as a result take chances that, if they had been drivers, they would never have attempted. As a result, for safety's sake, all juniors at Biglerville are required to take the course to learn something about the laws governing cars, and how long it takes a car to stop when it is traveling at various speeds.

Seek To Form Good Habits
The junior year was chosen because most students become 16 at this time and most learn to drive. "It is easier to teach new habits than to have the youngsters pick up bad driving habits and then have to eradicate them before teaching a good one," Ernst noted.

Schools throughout the country are, on an ever larger scale, turning to the teaching of auto safety and auto operation. The results have been very good so far, Ernst said, adding that "the youngsters not only learn skills, but they also learn that it takes more than mechanical skill to be a good driver."

Fifty-one attended the meeting at which President William G. Weaver presided. The speaker was introduced by the vice president, Dr. Kenneth L. Smoke.

Two Fined For Being 'Noisy, Boisterous'

Two Aspers youths, William Swope, 22, and Walter Wetzel, 23, arrested at 2 o'clock Sunday morning on Center square on disorderly conduct charges, pleaded guilty Monday night before Justice of the Peace John H. Bashore, but their fines of $10 and costs have not been paid.

When Wetzel appeared before Squire Bashore he found another charge awaiting him. William E. Stalb, Biglerville, charged him with assault and battery. A settlement was agreed upon, however, Squire Bashore said Wetzel agreed to pay Stalb's hospital and doctor bills. The squire, however, has not received his costs in that case, he said.

Employer Offers Aid
Swope and Wetzel were each fined $10 and costs on the disorderly conduct charges. The employer of one of the youths agreed to pay their fines if they would "work it out." He also agreed to reimburse Stalb and pay the costs in this action.

This morning the employer, Roy Goldsmith, informed the squire that the youths had not reported for work. They have until Saturday night to pay the fines.

Stalb charged that Wetzel struck him on the jaw. The laceration required six stitches, he said. The alleged assault took place Saturday night, prior to the arrest on the disorderly conduct charges.

Members of the Bendersville Fire company are beginning to think fires break out on a fixed schedule.

For three consecutive Mondays between 11:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m., the fire company has been called to fires. Each time the damage has been less than the time before.

On Monday, September 26, a $10,000 fire destroyed the barn of Frank Heim of Gardner's R. D. Again on Monday, October 3, the firemen kept the damage down to $1,000 as they saved the home of Mr. and Mrs. Galloway of Gardner's. This Monday the siren sounded right on schedule. This time it was a cle-track, an ex-army vehicle on the farm of Parker Kuntz, that caught fire. A fire in the engine was quickly put out without any damage.

ORGANIZATIONS TELL OF WORK FOR VETERANS

The work performed by various local organizations for veterans and their dependants was outlined Monday evening at a meeting of the Adams County Welfare council held in conjunction with a meeting of the Auxiliary of the Albert J. Lentz American Legion post held at the legion home on Baltimore street.

Miss Virginia Wright was chairman. Arthur J. Roth, commander of the Gettysburg post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Lawrence M. Sheads, representing the Legion post, revealed that both veterans' organizations provide free meal tickets, a free night's lodging and free bus tickets when necessary to stranded transient members. Sheads said the Legion post has spent $250 during the past nine months for such services provided to indigent transient veterans.

Roth reported on the plans of the reconstituted USO committee being set up in the county to raise funds for the national USO program of providing entertainment and centers for troops in the U.S. and overseas and for veterans and service men in hospitals. The county USO is seeking $2,600. A county committee will be set up to swing into action at any time troops are stationed here in large numbers.

Tells of Red Cross Work
He pointed out that "contributions to the USO will go into a fund which is helping Adams county men in service." There are "hundreds of countians in the armed forces today," he said.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington outlined the work of the Red Cross through its field service, home service, reporting service and the like, and through financial assistance to veterans and their families.

Mrs. Howard Hartzell, of the Legion auxiliary, reported on the special work carried out by that group. On a national scale in programs to which the local auxiliary donates, the auxiliary provides special rehabilitation work in veterans' hospitals, including Christmas programs and gifts. Eight hundred units sell poppies made by 1,700 disabled veterans. Profit made by the auxiliary goes to child welfare work and last year 989 children in the state were aided through the program. Last year $2,000 was donated to the Orphan school at Scotland for spending money to be given the children.

Each auxiliary, Mrs. Hartzell said, "adopts" a child and until he or she graduates, provides him with spending money and incidentals. In addition the local group visits the 48 veterans at Mont Alto each year, and provides gifts.

Other Speakers
Ruth Miller, president of the VFW Auxiliary, told of similar activities by that group among the children at Scotland orphan school and at the National VFW Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. In addition the group has "adopted" a little girl at Mont Alto sanatorium.

Edgar Crouse, head of the local PSES office, reported that disabled veterans are given first preference in job referrals by the local office, with other veterans in the second category and non-veterans third. He reported that only a few veterans drew the full amount they could have obtained in the "52-20 club." Those who were discharged after July 5, 1947, are able to secure such benefits until 1952, he added.

Plan Conference Of County Teachers
Plans for a conference of elementary teachers from throughout the county were outlined Monday evening at a meeting of the elementary principals' association of Adams county. The session was held in the office of the county superintendent of schools.

George Inskip, a member of the principals' group, said today that Miss Dorothy Mudd, county supervisor of instruction for Harford county, Md., and an instructor at John Hopkins university, will be the speaker for the county-wide meeting. Miss Mudd will speak on "How to Develop a Core Curriculum." The session will be held November 7 at 7:30 p. m. in the Gettysburg high school auditorium. A discussion on the new elementary curriculum in Pennsylvania schools will also be conducted.

"Flying Saucer" Only Balloon At College

Gettysburg residents were able to make an excellent observation of a "flying saucer" this morning.

The saucer-like object — when seen from the center of town — appeared to hang in the northern sky and travel up and down and sideways as if looking over the borough.

Investigation showed the object to be a large balloon fastened by a long cord to the SCA building at the college and riding about 500 feet above the building.

Those at the SCA building knew nothing of the balloon's purpose but said members of the physics department of the college had placed it there.

WARRIORS NEED VICTORY OVER SHIPPENSBURG

When the Gettysburg and Shippensburg high football teams meet here Friday evening in a South Penn conference game it will be a clash between the top and cellar teams of the circuit.

Coach George Forney's Warriors held on to their lead in the league despite a 13-13 tie with Waynesboro Saturday night. In fact, the locals increased their point advantage over Mechanicsburg and Chambersburg by 50 points.

Shippensburg has failed to win a league game in four starts although it showed signs of improvement last week by tabbing 19 points against Carlisle while yielding 33 tallies.

The Greyhounds opened their campaign with a 19-12 win over Quincey orphanage and after losing to Hershey 20-0 played a 6-6 tie with Hanover. Chambersburg, last year's conference champs, won easily 31-0.

Gettysburg can ill afford to take Shippensburg lightly as the Franklin countians usually play one of their best games when meeting the Forney-men. Having passed the midway mark in their campaign and looming as a "dark horse" in the league race, the Warriors must win this Friday to remain in the running.

Fans are still lauding the Warriors for their gritty comeback at Waynesboro after trailing 13-0 in the first period and if the same kind of spirit prevails in forthcoming games the locals may well be the surprise of the South Penn conference.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Earl Blaik says he and his aides put nine months' work into Army's victory over Michigan last Saturday. . . . But you wouldn't be for wrong in saying that game was won when Army beat Harvard a year ago. . . . This writer had the privilege last winter of looking at the Harvard game pictures with Blaik and got a faint idea of what must have happened. . . .

Seems that Fritz Crisler developed the study Michigan 4-4 defense, based on a four-man line and four backers. Bennie Oosterbaan continued to use it and Art Valpey took it along to Harvard. . . . Last fall Harvard gave the Cadets all kinds of trouble in the first half with that setup. The linemen and backers move in unexpected directions; it becomes a five or six man line or sometimes a 3-5 with no warning; secondary defenders line up three deep and whirl off in different directions. It's confusing even in slow motion pictures. . . . But during the intermission, Blaik worked out some of the answers and army moved on to a 20-0 victory over Harvard. . . .

By last Saturday you can be sure the Cadets have been taught how to block and where to run on almost every conceivable combination.

PLAYING THE PERCENTAGES
Ed Hicks of Alderson-Broadhead college in West Virginia reports an odd situation created by the late lamented World Series. . . . Seems a math teacher, who also is a rabid baseball fan, solved his how-to-listen problem by taking a portable radio to class and sending the students to the blackboard to work out problems while he tuned in the game. . . . Since the kids also were listening with one ear, they made more errors than both ball clubs. . . . So the prof compensated for this divided attention by adding 15 per cent to all their grades.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
The Orange Bowl, which wants an eastern team this year, already is showing interest in Villanova. . . . Jack Cloud, the William and Mary fullback, won't listen to promoter Bill Lewis' suggestions that he'd make a fine pro wrestler because he's more interested in pro football. Virginians say Cloud can out-plunge a Paris necktie, but he's used too much on defense to do much running.

Mummasburg—Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Strausburg were Mr. Strausburg's two daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Plantz and family of Enola, and Mr. and Mrs. Clair C. Moore, of York.

Bruce Wilson is spending some time at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Emlet and family, near Wrightsville, where he is employed.

Father Of Modern Football Is Dead

Philadelphia, Oct. 11 (AP)—John Farrell Macklin, who in five years of coaching built up one of the best records in the football record books, died at his home in the Philadelphia suburbs yesterday. He was 65.

Macklin was the founding father of big time football at Michigan state college, newly elected member of the Big Ten. The school named its stadium Macklin field in his honor.

Macklin coached Michigan state—then Michigan agricultural college—from 1911 through 1915 and lost only three games. He piloted the first Spartan team to defeat a University of Michigan eleven.

Macklin, a 6 foot 4, 190-pounder, quit his football chores to enter private business where he served as president of J. H. Weaver and company, a coal concern.

RICKEY TO KEEP BURT SHOTTON

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Manager Burt Shotton of the Brooklyn Dodgers has received a vote of confidence from his boss and lifelong friend, Branch Rickey.

Shotton, who led the Dodgers to the National league pennant in a stirring drive, hasn't signed a contract for 1950 but that's not odd.

Old Barney has been working for Rickey for 33 years and never operated with a contract until National league rules forced him to sign one. Rickey gave Burt a vote of confidence during an informal press meeting yesterday.

"I consider Shotton a sound manager, just as Casey Stengel and Leo Durocher are sound managers," the voice of Brooklyn said. "I will always go along with a sound manager in his front guess."

Meanwhile, Stengel, who piloted the New York Yankees to victory over the Dodgers in the World Series, contradicted reports that he would not return because of ill health.

"Nothing to it," said Stengel. "Why, I'm so healthy that I'm the only guy on the club who hasn't had a doctor all year." Casey is operating under a two year contract that calls for $40,000 per season.

Witness Stumped Lawyer This Time

Philadelphia, Oct. 11 (AP)—A witness was testifying in an accident case last week.

The defense attorney pointed out the man admitted he was a block away from the scene of the accident. "Do you know how far a city block is?" asked the lawyer. "How could you see the accident from a block away?"

"Can you see the moon at night?" asked the witness in turn. "How far is that old moon away? I can see it."

MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS ARE BUSY BUILDING FOR '50

By RALPH RODEN
New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—With the World Series now a part of baseball history, the major league teams continue building for 1950.

The reconstruction began in the final month of the season but the tight pennant races in both leagues and the series took the spotlight. No team in either league is standing pat. They can't afford to.

The newly crowned champion New York Yankees are looking for pitchers (who isn't?) a first baseman and long ball hitting outfielder.

Dodgers' Plans
The uncertainty of the physical well-being of Tommy Henrich, Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize necessitates the Yanks' search for a first baseman and an outfielder who can sock with authority.

Brooklyn's National league champion Dodgers also are on the prowl for pitchers but they hope to obtain that rare commodity from their vast minor league empire.

The Dodgers also want to chop off at least six members of their championship club in order to add some of their budding minor leaguers to their reserve list.

At present the Dodger reserve list totals 39, one less than the legal 40. Unless the Dodgers can jettison part of their present crew they stand to lose some green but valued timber in baseball's annual player draft next month. The Dodgers, along with the other clubs must submit their reserve list to Commissioner A. B. Chandler by Oct. 16.

Mack Is Busy
Dodger President Branch Rickey held an informal press conference yesterday discussing future Dodger plans.

Rickey told the gathering he would like to get rid of at least a half dozen players. He refused to name the sextet but reports have outfielders Marv Rackley, Dick Whitman, Mike McCormick, a third baseman and pitcher Ralph Branca as the most likely heads to roll.

The Philadelphia Athletics also have been active.

Connie Mack is stocking his team with infielders. He has purchased three third basemen—Frankie Gustine, Kermit Wahl and Gene Markland. Gustine, former National leaguer, was obtained from Los Angeles, Wahl from Montreal and Markland from Buffalo. In addition, the A's swapped catcher Buddy Rosar to the Boston Red Sox for utility infielder Billy Hitchcock.

Admissions for each game will be 50c.

The Biglerville high varsity will play at West York Friday night.

"RUSH" TAG ON ARMS AID FUND

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—Congressional leaders slapped a "rush" tag today on President Truman's request for $1,314,010,000 to finance the foreign military aid program.

They hope to draft and pass, in time to adjourn this session of Congress next Saturday, a bill providing the dollars to breathe life into the aid program recently authorized by Congress.

The House Appropriations committee called a closed-door hearing to consider the President's request. Invited to testify were Secretary of Defense Johnson and General Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.), of the Appropriations committee, told newsmen the hearings will end tomorrow. There is no need for detailed testimony, he said, because the House Foreign Affairs committee has printed the voluminous transcript of testimony it took when the program was authorized.

The President's request, sent to Congress late yesterday, was for $814,010,000 in cash and $500,000,000 in contract authority to finance the plan to furnish military aid to nations outside the Soviet iron curtain.

ARREST RUSSIAN
Vienna, Oct. 11 (AP)—An Austrian policeman arrested a Russian soldier yesterday after the Russian's truck ran into four pedestrians, killing two and injuring the other two. It was the first time in the four years of occupation that an Austrian policeman arrested a member of the Russian military. The Austrian police have had the power to arrest British, French and American soldiers for violations.

Moscow, Oct. 11 (AP)—Vice Admiral A. A. Nikolaev, 44, deputy chief of political administration for the USSR armed forces, died after a long illness, it was announced today. During the war Nikolaev was a member of the war council of the Northern Fleet.

Conerly Of Giants Leads Loop Passers

Philadelphia, Oct. 11 (AP)—Charles Conerly, the New York Giants' star passer, leads the National League's aerial artists with a 56.9 completion average.

Conerly has attempted 65 passes and hit the mark squarely with 37, according to NFL statistics released today. Four of the tosses paid off in touchdowns.

Steve Van Buren, the NFL's all-time record ground gainer, continues to pace his specialty. Joltin' Steve has gained 291 yards on 80 carries for an average gain of 3.6.

Bob Mann, Detroit Lion speedster, tops the pass receivers. He's snared 16 for a total yardage gain of 176. Hugh Taylor of Washington has compiled the biggest gain—297 yards—once going 76 yards for a touchdown.

NOTRE DAME AT TOP IN FOOTBALL POLL FOR WEEK

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—No one section of the country dominates the college football picture today.

The second Associated Press nationwide poll of the season shows the Midwest, led by Notre Dame, and the south each with three places among the top 10 teams. The far west had two, while the east and southwest each had one.

Notre Dame, second in the first poll last week, moved to the fore but Army, thanks to its 21-7 conquest of Michigan on Saturday, made the most spectacular jump—from seventh to second.

Michigan Drops
Michigan was spilled from first to seventh.

Notre Dame, victorious over Purdue Saturday, 35-12, this week received 67 first place votes for 1,489 points. Army, with 58 firsts and 1,459, got 30 points of the lead. The Cadets represent the only eastern threat for top honors.

The southwest is represented in third position by Oklahoma. There were no changes in the latest voting for third, fourth, fifth and sixth place, with Oklahoma being followed by Tulane, Minnesota and North Carolina.

Back of no longer invincible Michigan in eighth place is Kentucky, whose 25-0 rout of Georgia Saturday boosted them from 15th. California, 10th behind Southern Methodist last week, moved past that idle team, the two swapping positions.

Martin Walter, Biglerville R. D., chairman of the PMA committee for the county, said the committee hopes to have preliminary plans for the purchase of the fruit worked out by Wednesday night, when the committee will meet in the county Agricultural Conservation association office on North Washington street.

Setting Up Committee
A committee of fruit growers, with Walter serving as chairman, is being set up to handle the proposed apple purchase.

Walter today pointed out that all plans are tentative and that the purchase of the apples will depend to a large extent on the price offered, but added his belief that if all goes well a large quantity of Adams county apples will go to the government program.

Since the government plans to purchase U. S. 1s, 2½-inch and up, Walter estimated that if the purchase plan materializes, additional storage space for better fruit will probably be available, because of the removal from storage of the smaller apples.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WEAR

There is the old adage that "a new broom sweeps clean," but it has nothing of the love of cleanliness that an old broom has! Things that show wear show usefulness and an unheralded history of human joy as well. Worn baby shoes, chairs that have fitted to the warmth of unnumbered persons, books that have inspired, shoes that have completed many an errand of good will and daily effort.

A friend, just returned from Italy, told me of his exciting experiences, and one was to note the deep roots worn into huge blocks that road vehicles had worn over long years, perhaps centuries. Collectors prize the patina on old vessels. Anything that shows wear is steeped with usefulness.

A huge business is carried on in antiques—but they would have no attraction if they did not show wear and usage. The stairs and floors of public buildings show the wear of years, marked by millions of invisible footfalls. I think of this when I visit the big public library in my city. Worn through the search for knowledge.

Great sums are paid for rare tapestries and oriental rugs, but it is the wear they show that makes them the more valuable. In earlier times people took great pains, and long years, in many instances, to complete a fine work of art. Each exhibits the enjoyment of long years and of many a lover of beauty.

Weather-beaten faces show the wear of the years that labor has stamped there, but there is beauty to such a face. The wear of worry shows in many a face, as well, and it is an unfortunate showing. The wear of willing work is better, for there are joys and satisfaction that have left their mark. And they are reflected silently, somehow.

In my book catalogs I often come across the phrase "covers worn, but text clean." That shows that the book must be worthwhile with the evidence of so many interested readers left behind. Fine, clean copies of rare children's books are difficult to come across for so many read and enjoyed them. That old phrase comes to me—"it is better to wear out than to rust out!"

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Every-Day Love."

Just Folks

CAMPAINING LOVER
When I was courting Nellie, I promised countless things.
Like gowns of silk and satin and diamond pins and rings.
As men who run for office and would elected be,
I pledged that I'd be faithful if she would vote for me.

The candidates were many who sought her heart to win.
I charged them all with folly; I branded them with sin.
I praised myself most highly. Now let it be confessed,
I told her I had talents I never have possessed.

Then came the happy evening she cast her vote for me,
Believing every promise of what I'd do and be.
But done the honeymooning, my Nellie found this true:
That all they pledge as lovers few husbands ever do.

The Meeting at College: On the way out to college Saturday evening the Columbia Club fired off the remainder of the fireworks at the open lot along the Reading railroad tracks. At Brua Chapel they were given an enthusiastic welcome by President McKnight and Professor Klingner. Corporal Smith was in charge of the meeting. In his remarks Professor Klingner expressed the disgust of the townspeople at the outrageous action of the Burgess, and assured the Philadelphians that they were always welcome in Gettysburg.

The offense was a public one by a public official and merits public apology. If he will not apologize he should resign.

Personal Mention: Mrs. Swope, widow of the late David Swope, moved from Newville and is occupying the house of the Misses McCreary, Chambersburg street.

WILL DISPLAY

display the motifs commonly used, among them the following:

The tulip, from the Netherlands and Europe; the pomegranate found on bride's boxes, which probably originated in Persia; hearts, used on birth and baptismal certificates, in needlework, on dower chests, in wood, tin and iron, perhaps originating as the Sacred Heart of Christian symbolism.

Other Attractions

Angels, used on birth certificates and on certain types of furniture, a use which may have had its source in the same religious zeal which brought the first settlers to this country; stars, used on dower chests, quilts and other forms of needlecraft, and in punched tin work; peacocks, used for the rich and brilliant colors; rose, a favorite, used on painted and stenciled furniture, china and glassware, miniature boxes, needlework and clock faces.

Fuchsias and dahlias, primroses and daffodils, dogwood and morning glories, which added color to unrelieved surfaces; flowers in urns and vases, indicating a common origin, perhaps Chinese, by way of Persia and England; horses, on plates, cookie cutters and weather vanes; unicorn on dower chests; fruit, including strawberries, melons, peaches, plums, grapes, cherries, used on stenciled furniture, fruit plates and fruit carved furniture. The "Dutchiest" of all were the tomato-like fruits.

"Tree of Life"
The "Tree of Life" which probably originated in Persia, will be shown as found on door towels, samplers, in fraktur and more rarely on painted surfaces.

Fine quality, hardwood furniture was seldom decorated, such as mahogany from Philadelphia, cherry and walnut of the Dutch, but the "every-day" pine furniture was covered in bold colors.

The members of the International Wives club will display Fair Isle knitting from England; hand-made flint work of Italy, Italian and Czechoslovakian embroidery and the machine embroidery of Greece, together with unusual boxes from various countries.

FIGHT MOVIE VOTE

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—A hearing is set for tomorrow on a move to remove the Sunday movies issue from the ballot here next month. The Rev. Robert C. Davis, president of the Pottsville Ministerial association, contended in an appeal to Schuylkill County court yesterday that the petition requesting the ballot bears "hundreds of illegal, improper and forged signatures."

SEES POOR MARKET

Harrisburg, Oct. 11 (AP)—Pennsylvania's anthracite industry has a decade of declining markets ahead, says a hard coal engineer. "It is not only a competitive industry within itself but it has outside competition from other popular fuels," Edgar Kudlick, chief mining engineer of the Glen Alden Coal company told the state tax equalization board yesterday.

STORM CAUSES DEATHS, DAMAGE

(By The Associated Press)

A storm which brought destructive gales over the central states, killing 16 persons and causing heavy property and crop damage, moved into the Hudson Bay area today.

The violent winds, which reached a velocity of more than 100 miles an hour in some areas of the storm belt, diminished but rain fell over wide sections of the midwest.

Temperatures moderated over the central states but rain fell over wide sections of the midwest. Temperatures moderated over the central states but the unseasonably warm weather continued over the southern states and the Atlantic coastal areas. The mercury hit into the high 80s and low 90s in some of the eastern cities yesterday to break records for the date. Temperature continued a little below normal in the western states.

The high winds which swept across most of the midwest broke a spell of hot weather in some states. The winds were strongest in Minnesota, near the low pressure center. Minneapolis had 70 mile an hour sustained winds with gusts as high as 95 miles per hour. A 60-foot chimney toppled from a hotel, seriously injuring four airline hostess school students. Eleven other persons were hospitalized because of injuries in the storm.

Two persons were killed in the storm in Wisconsin. The coast guard estimated that 65 mile an hour winds caused $500,000 damage in the Chequamegon bay area of Lake Superior.

Killers' Parents Fight Damage Suit

Philadelphia, Oct. 11 (AP)—The parents of Seymour Levin, 17-year old boy now serving a life sentence for the scissor slaying of a playmate, are going to fight a $35,000 suit charging them with responsibility for their son's action.

The suit was filed by Stanley and Bertha Simons, parents of the victim, Ellis, 12. Young Simons was killed last January 9 after Levin lured him to his home and stabbed the youth with scissors, Levin concealed the body beside the family garage where it was found.

In an answer to the Simons' suit the Levins specifically deny that Seymour "at any time had either a vicious or malignant disposition or had the habit or tendency to assault, molest or mistreat other children."

The Levin reply filed in the probatory's office here recently and disclosed yesterday further denied knowledge or information that their son had such traits or habits. The couple contended they were neither "careless nor negligent in permitting Seymour to go about the streets."

Convicted Slayer Plans New Appeal

Bloomsburg, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—Council for Alex Agoston, Jr., 41-year-old convicted killer, prepared today to appeal to the State Supreme court from Judge C. William Kreisher's refusal to grant a new trial.

Agoston was convicted in May, 1948, and sentenced to die for the slaying of Russell Ballet, 33, used car salesman.

The prosecution's trump card in the case was a statement signed by Agoston in which he admitted shooting Ballet and dumping his body in the Susquehanna river for the $1,520 Ballet had withdrawn from a bank to pay Agoston for an automobile.

Council for Agoston contended the statement was obtained despite the fact Agoston was not arraigned immediately. This, it was argued, violated Agoston's constitutional rights.

NEHRU'S VISIT TO AMERICA IS HISTORIC EVENT

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

A dozen years from now we are likely to be reminding ourselves that today's arrival of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru on his first trip to this country was a far-reaching event. The prime minister of India is one of the outstanding leaders of our time. As head of this great new nation, with its population of more than 300,000,000, Nehru already is demonstrating a leadership which is making itself felt throughout Asia. His influence on world unity will be vast.

Therefore Nehru's visit to Washington, where he is to be entertained by our President, becomes a matter of moment. For upon the impressions which this brilliant and highly sensitive guest forms may well depend future relations between the United States and an India which is going to play a dominant part in the development of the Orient.

Disciple of Gandhi

Nehru, who will be 60 on the 14th of next month, not only was born into a family of great wealth but he is a Kashmiri Brahmin — the highest aristocracy of all India. He was educated in England. He attended Harrow, one of the country's famous "public" schools (really private) and the University of Cambridge. Later he studied law in London and returned to his native land as a polished intellectual who had the marks of genius.

At the outset he showed little interest in the independence movement, but soon he joined and thereafter devoted his whole life to the ideal. He became one of the most devoted disciples of Mohandas K. Gandhi and followed the saintly little Mahatma faithfully in the drive for Indian independence until the latter's assassination on January 30, 1948.

Believes In "Mixed Economy"

It was natural that Gandhi should have designated Nehru as his "political heir" and that the disciple should become the first prime minister of the dominion of India when Britain granted independence. Unhappily the division of the vast subcontinent into two dominions—Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan—resulted in bloody communal strife.

Nehru is an internationalist and Socialist and is a bitter opponent of dictatorship. He is, however, what

Anthracite Industry Is Going To School

Emmaus, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—The anthracite industry is going to school in an effort to halt the advance of oil and gas into the home-heating field.

The course, completed in a day, is sponsored by Electric Furnace Man, might be described as a middle-of-the-road socialist. He believes in what he calls a "mixed economy" in which the state assumes management of key industries but still allows plenty of chance for private enterprise to operate.

Inc., manufacturers of coal-burning stoker equipment in this tiny eastern Pennsylvania community.

There's one lesson only: How to tell the public that anthracite is a completely automatic fuel, cheaper and better than oil or gas.

The pupils are coal dealers and officials of firms that produce most of the nation's anthracite (estimated at 45,000,000 tons annually).

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Frank C. Burrows, 69, news editor of the American Banker, a daily newspaper, and for 25 years advertising manager of the Irving Trust company, died last night. He was born in Williamsport, Pa.

GIRL SCOUTS

Girl Scout council treasurer was announced.

It was decided that courts of awards shall be arranged with each community to hold its own court. The week of November 7 has been selected as the time for the Girl Scout drive in the county. In Gettysburg, the Girl Scouts share in the Community Chest fund.

Mrs. George A. Miller was made county chairman of cookie sales and Mrs. Mervin Bream was named Gettysburg district chairman. Proceeds from the cookie sales will go to the day camping fund.

Nursery "Great Success"

The Girl Scout nursery conducted at the South Mountain fair last month was described as a "great success." Expenses totaled only $5.34. It was announced that Miss Marian Tupper will conduct a training course for scout leaders and troop committees and other interested persons.

Miss Tupper told the board she has been appointed as a committee member of the Pennsylvania Camping association. That group is a subsidiary of the American Camping association.

LOSE WEDDING GIFTS

Reading, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—The newly-wed George Robertsons will move into their new home this week minus the $600 worth of wedding gifts given them at their marriage last week. The gifts, stored in the attic of the home of Thomas Melcher, were destroyed by fire yesterday.

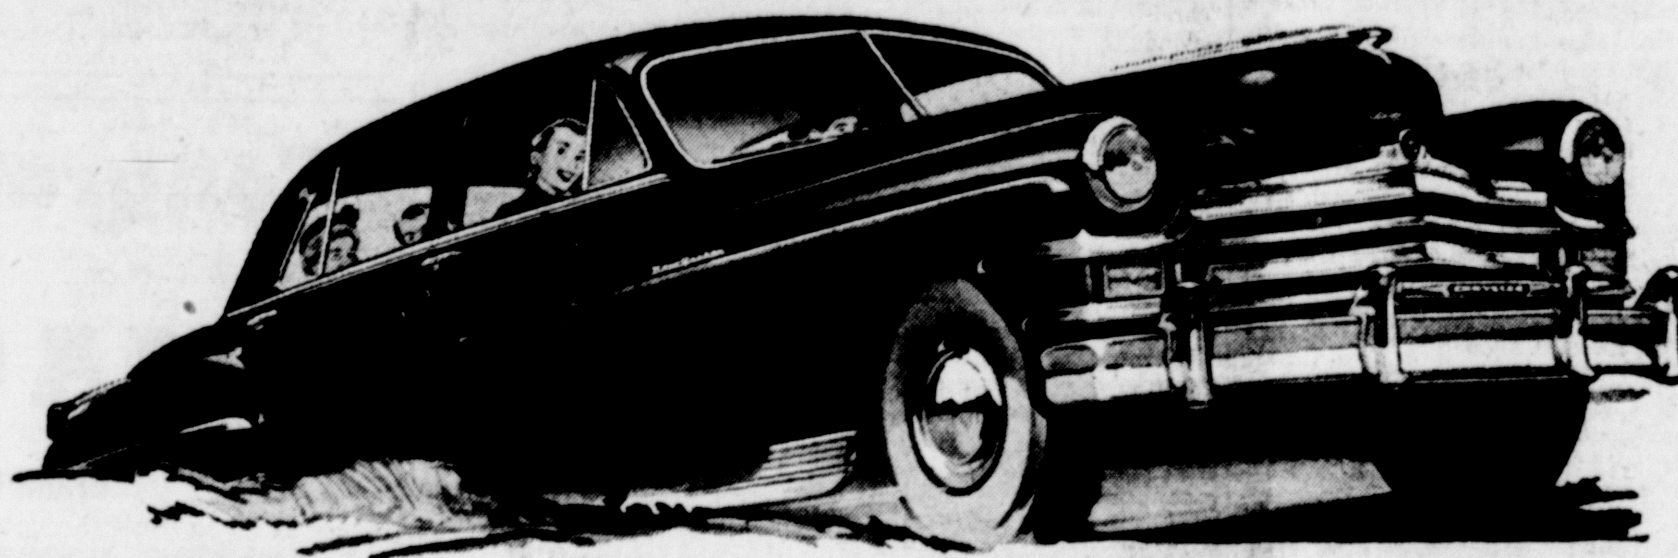

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—Three extra Senate races, in New York, Connecticut and Idaho, have increased the mathematical chances for a 1950 swing in Senate control from the Democrats to the Republicans.

The death Saturday of Senator Miller (D-Idaho) is expected to bring early appointment of a Republican successor by GOP Governor

C. A. Robins of Idaho. Former Senator Henry Dworshak and former Rep. Abe Coff are among those mentioned as possible appointees.

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—President Truman will speak at the laying of the cornerstone of the new United Nations building in New York October 24, the White House announced today.

Chapter 16

Down at the home ranch that night the Randalls and Seltzers were playing poker for matches. Mike Randall was teamed with Mrs. Seltzer, who was just learning the game, against his wife and John Seltzer.

He reached into a vest pocket and brought out a huge watch, glanced at it for the umpteenth time, and then began to wind it with a key. "It's after eleven. Them kids said they'd be back by ten. I wonder what's happened to 'em?"

Mrs. Seltzer laughed. Haven't you forgotten that you were young once yourself, Mike? They'll be along pretty soon."

Randall yawned. "Well, they can come along and be blown. I like my sleep. I'm cleaned anyhow, so I'm going to bed."

"You menfolk go on to bed," Mrs. Randall said. "We'll wait up for the youngsters."

They bid their good nights and Randall went in and pulled off his clothes. He rolled into the big four-poster bed and slept the sleep of a healthy man living an outdoor life.

A tap came on his shoulder. He awoke at once and was surprised to see the faint first touch of dawn coming through the window. His wife was still dressed. She hadn't gone to bed.

"Mike, it's after four and those kids haven't come back yet. I'm worried. Do you suppose something could have happened to them? Ellen and Mary would never spend a night in a line cabin with three men, particularly when they promised to be back last night."

Mike Randall hit the floor in his sock feet and began yanking on his pants.

"By heaven!" he swore. "What a fool I've been! I shoulda known that when Ellen told Joe he was fired, then two kids wouldn't take it layin' down. I shoulda known him better than that. If he's took her off an' married her, why, I'll—"

He burst into oaths again and went into the kitchen, bellowing for the Mexican girl to get some coffee. But the coffeepot already was on and breakfast, prepared by the two women, was ready.

He downed the last of his coffee and disappeared into the next room. When he came out again he was chapped and gumbelled and carrying a saddle.

"Start!" he bellowed. "Blue Star, come here, you mean devil!" And a shrill whistle broke from his lips.

He opened the gate and flung his saddle to the ground and reached for the Morgan thoroughbred's mane, slipping on the bridle. "I always said you could run down any horse in Texas and kill it on its feet. You may have to go a lot farther than that, because if he's married her I'm going to shoot him down, so help me heaven!"

The saddle hit the sleek back and he cinched up with the speed and sureness of years of practice. "Now, you big devil," he said grimly, swinging up, "you ain't had a good run in two weeks on account of the visitors and things, but you're going to get one this morning. I'll find them if I have to—"

He broke off and sawed hard on the reins as the great plunging horse beneath him lunged and fought the bit, impatient to be under way, to work off some of the tremendous energy and stamina in those flowing muscles and full barrel.

Randall gave him his head and the stallion lunged down the lane, shooting past the poplars, his iron-shod hoofs thundering on the hard packed road. Star's mane was out, flying in the wind, his mood seeming to match the mounting rage in his master.

For Randall was working himself up to a fury pounded at his temples. The horse was lathered now, drenched with sweat, and when the cabin came into sight Mike Randall forgot everything and used his spurs. He rode with a six-shooter in his right hand, for there was no stopping him now. His rage had got the best of him. No matter what happened, he was going to kill Joe Allison on sight.

Star lunged down the last slope and across the bottom, momentum carrying him up again and around the corner of the cabin. The rancher hit the ground and saw Ellen in the doorway.

"Where is he?" he bellowed. "Don't lie about it, Ellen. You stayed in this cabin last night. Where is he?"

He lunged at the doorway and pushed her aside as Turk and Henry jumped up from the table.

"Where is he?" he yelled again. "In here, asleep."

It was Mary who stood in the doorway leading into the next room. Randall pushed forward, six-shooter in hand, but she blocked his way.

"Get out my way," she roared at her. "Pop, put up that gun and stop making a fool of yourself," snapped Ellen. "Cut it out."

"Get out of my way, Mary," Randall ordered, and tried to push her. She braced herself and looked at him with level eyes. "Not until you put down that gun, Joe was shot by an ambusher last night and may die."

All the fire went out of Mike Randall's eyes. He let out a sigh and his shoulders drooped. Slowly he sheathed the cap-and-ball and rubbed his sweaty palm against his chaps. He went in, looked at the bandaged figure on the bed, came out in silence. This was difficult. Joe was one of his men. That made very much of a difference.

"Turk," he said feebly, "go out and lead Star around until he cools off and then rub him down and put a blanket over him. How that big devil can run!"

Chapter 17

Late that night Jay lay in a big bed upstairs in the west wing of the T-shaped ranch house. Following Randall's sudden appearance at the line cabin on a foam-flecked horse, Harry Seltzer had saddled up and headed for the ranch with all possible speed to send back men with a wagon filled with a mattress and plenty of quilts, and to send another man to town after the doctor. The trip had been a slow, tortuous one and Jay felt weak and sick.

Slow weeks followed for Jay. The rains set in two days after his arrival at the ranch, and he lay in bed and listened to the patter on the roof and wondered how Joe was making out in Brad Morden's horse thief camp. He heard the sounds of riders sloping through the mud, the bawl of miserable wet milk pen calves, listened to the wind, and watched for Ellen's appearance in his room.

For something had happened to her. It seemed as though overnight she had changed. Her eyes avoided his and she no longer called him darling and kissed him as she had at first.

He thought he knew what was troubling her. She was probably envying him drunk at the settlement, loving Lucia as Joe had loved them at dances in the face of her anger, and imagining Joe walking through the night with his arm around her waist.

It was a mess and he felt badly about it. But there could be no doubt of the truth: Ellen had changed and was almost avoiding him. On the other hand, it was Mary Seltzer who was with him almost constantly, waiting upon him and doing his slightest wish. She read to him until he fell asleep and then pulled the sheet up around his neck and slipped softly from the room. He found himself thinking more and more of her.

A week after his arrival Jim Swinnerton arrived at the ranch. He came upstairs with a cheery greeting and sat down on the edge of the bed. He was well dressed, clean shaven, and his eyes went more than once to Mary.

Presently the lawyer turned to the two girls. "I'm his lawyer, you know, in case anything develops from this. Could I ask him a few questions in private?"

"Of course," Ellen replied. "Come along, Mary."

The door closed behind them and Swinnerton looked at Jay.

Jay said, "You didn't tell them who did it?"

Swinnerton shook his head. "It wouldn't do. They think it was Miguel."

"Good. Randall would really feel bad if he knew it was one of his own men. And if Ellen found out that Mike had hired Peg Smith to spy on me—or rather Joe—she'd turn on him and might break up this family. It was Smith, wasn't it?"

A nod. "He came back to camp, boasting that he'd killed you. I got three of our toughest boys and we literally kicked him out of the place. Mike fired him, too. Said he'd had enough of Peg and his boasting about what an exterminator he was. I don't know what happened to him. He just disappeared. I hope he's gone."

"I don't," grunted Jay. "I've got a little square-up to make for Joe and myself. How is Joe?"

The lawyer grinned. "Eating his head off and able to sit up a bit."

"Heard any word from Morden?"

"None. He'll be in a week or ten days. I've got to be up at camp to meet him."

Another two weeks passed. The rains stopped and the sun came out. The withered grass began to take on new life, and down in the big pasture the Morgans whistled and stomped. And now that Jay was out of danger the fiery-tempered Irishman had again made things plain.

"I'm sorry you got shot, working for me," he'd said in his blunt way. "But the deal still stands. There'll be no marriage and you're still fired. I could forgive you anything except this Lucia business. I'll have no man as a son-in-law who is low enough to make love to a Mexican girl while engaged to my daughter."

"Didn't it ever occur to you that Peg Smith, hating me as he does, might have lied, sir?" Jay asked.

"All I know is that you admitted being there and that the girl was there," had come the blunt reply. "You went back to that line camp on certain conditions. It meant staying there and looking out after my interests and earning the money I paid you. If you had lived up to those conditions you wouldn't be miles away at night, when anything might have happened, fooling around with a Mexican girl. There ain't anything more that I can say or will say, Joe. When you get well I'll pay you off and I want you to leave the ranch."

Two weeks later, Turk, risking Mike Randall's wrath, rode down from the line camp late one Saturday afternoon. "Howdy, tha, boy!" he greeted him, sitting down and tossing his hat at the bed post. The hat missed and went sailing to the floor. "How you feelin'?"

"Coming along swell. Seen Lucia lately?"

"Night 'fore last. Pore little kid." "Something happen?"

"Plenty. Brad and the boys got back last week from the territories. They really hit trouble this time. They run into a big fight up in the Indian Territory and lost half their horses an' three men. Lucia's father was one of them. That leaves the kid an orphan."

"Where's Miguel?"

"That Mexican boss thief? He slid out a few days ago, hittin' south fer the border country to steal another batch of horses to bring up to Brad. He told her before he went that next time he was takin' her with him. But I ain't aimin' to let that Mex do anything of the kind. If he tries anything while I'm around I'm jest natcherly a-goin' to throw a gun on him."

"He'll get her while you're away," Jay pointed out.

"Mebbe. I'm thinkin' of quittin' my job an' stickin' around the settlement jest to see he don't."

"That will make two of us. I'm out of a job, too. The old man is standing pat."
